The amount of investment? 3,5 million euros.

Saint-Germain-Sur-Moine, Thursday 25 June, 10.00 am. Invited together with suppliers and collaborators to assist to the different phases of the production process and guided by those who have given their heart and soul in the restyling of the French venue, the local authorities touch with their hands and see for the first time the innovation branded Edilteco. "With this ribbon cutting, "drapeau" de la France bleu, blanc, rouge, we want to thank all people and institutions that have turned our project into reality. First of all technicians and suppliers. But also the Region and the province of Maine and Loira." This is Paolo Stabellini, president of Edilteco Group, who opens the dances in the warehouse that prefer red and grey as all other present buildings, colors that are the signature of the Italian Company. Next to him Laurent Mainy, managing director and Franck Pied, marketing director at Edilteco France. "It's easy to surrender to injury – adds Mr Stabellini – A lot of people believe that beyond Italian borders there's a sort of promised land, an Eldorado easy to be conquered at a low cost. Actually in terms of taxes France doesn't make discounts to entrepreneurs. Nevertheless the industry is here considered a common good and so it is supported by a strong and effective network of collaboration. A solid network that guarantees a real support because it is based on the harmony between enterprise and public administration". As a result of a constant ethical and sustainable research whose goal is people psychological and physical wellbeing, the Edilteco-branded innovation has allowed a family-owned Company loyal to its roots and with an annual turnover of 30 million, to shine in the international construction landscape. There are indeed 40 countries in the world that host the production partners of the Italian group. These are Companies that are sure of the added value supported by an exclusive technical know-how but accessible at the same time, have purchased the exclusive technology made in Edilteco and are today able to manufacture locally the products created by the mother Company. Among them, Politerm Blu, superlight thermal insulating aggregate composed by virgin expanded polystyrene beads mixed with a specific E.I.A (Edilteco Insulating Additive). A forefront solution ideal to prepare lightweight thermal insulating screeds that satisfy the severe parameters of the protocols of environmental compatibility, Itaca and Leed. Strong with its 27 employees and with a double surface if compared to the past (7000 square meters against the original 3700), Edilteco site in Saint-Germain-Sur-Moine has extended the production. New entry of exception is Ecap, innovative prefinished thermal insulating panel born for the thermal insulation of ceilings and walls both internal and external. Easy to use (it is indeed prearranged for the application of dowels) Ecap reduces installation time up to 60% if compared with traditional exterior insulation system. So it becomes the right solution to insulate in a good way and in short time old as well as new buildings. Always been supporter of healthy, comfortable and sustainable living, also from an economical point of view, Edilteco seems not to be afraid of imitations.

Not even of China, country of the big occasions coveted but also looked askance. It's inevitable to face this country, that the Company from San Felice has been able to conquer thanks to the partnership with Beijing Shun gang zhu bang Environmental Protection Technology Co. Ltd, industrial company at the forefront of thermal insulation. "It's more profitable to work with us than imitate our products" observes Paolo Stabellini. But he doesn't get distracted and comes back to the French venue and its future. "In only ten years in France we have started with one single person and become now 27 people. In the next three years we expect to hire at least 15 new employee".
