EDILTECO IN RIYADH FOR THE SAUDI-ITALY INVESTMENT AND BUSINESS FORUM 2025

Riyadh, November 25, 2025 – Edilteco Group is taking part in the Saudi-Italy Investment and Business Forum 2025, held today in Riyadh at the Mandarin Oriental Al Faisaliah, within the official institutional mission promoted by ICE Agency and the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation.

Edilteco's participation comes within one of the most significant Italy–Saudi Arabia bilateral economic events in recent years. The Forum brings together over 430 Italian companies and around 805 Italian delegates, alongside more than 600 Saudi entities, for a total of over 1,000 registered companies. The program is structured around five strategic thematic areas and includes approximately 340 B2B meetings, designed to foster new industrial and commercial partnerships.

A rapidly evolving context: Vision 2030 and major investments

Saudi Arabia is undergoing a deep transformation driven by Saudi Vision 2030, the national plan aimed at economic diversification and supported by an extensive investment agenda in infrastructure, construction, innovation, renewable energy, sustainable mobility, and urban development. This trajectory positions the Kingdom among the world's most promising markets for the construction sector and for advanced building technologies.

The strengthening of economic relations between Italy and Saudi Arabia is also backed by a progressively more solid institutional framework. In January, Italian and Saudi leadership signed agreements worth approximately USD 10 billion, elevating bilateral cooperation to a strategic partnership and opening new opportunities for joint investment in major Euro-Asian infrastructure corridors.

Edilteco's contribution: building solutions that are lightweight, efficient, and sustainable

At Riyadh, Edilteco brings its know-how in high-performance building solutions—ranging from thermal insulation and structural lightweight systems to technologies for screeds and subfloors—with the aim of offering concrete value to Saudi projects that increasingly focus on energy efficiency, speed of execution, and long-term durability.

Participation in the Forum marks a key milestone in Edilteco Group's internationalization strategy. The Gulf area has become a dynamic hub for innovation in construction, where the technical quality of Made in Italy is recognized as a competitive advantage in tackling the challenges of future cities.

"Being in Riyadh as part of an institutional mission of this scale strengthens our international positioning and enables direct dialogue with a market that is redefining the way cities and buildings are designed and delivered. Vision 2030 calls for reliable, high-performance, sustainable solutions—Edilteco is ready to put its technical expertise at the service of new partners and major projects," said Paolo Stabellini, CEO of Edilteco Group.

Agenda and meetings

Throughout the day, Edilteco will attend the Forum's working sessions and bilateral meetings. The agenda includes the breakout session "Shaping the Cities of the Future: sustainability, new mobility, integrated infrastructures & services", dedicated to sustainable urban development drivers, as well as extensive business matching and networking with Saudi and international stakeholders.
